“ I can't believe it's been almost 15 years man. I remember the first day I met you. First day of 6th grade, at lunch, at a new school, and I had no idea where to sit. I saw you sitting by yourself waving me down to come sit with you with a big ass smile on your face and that instantly made my anxiety melt. I felt no choice but to smile back. We used to always get those Fruitopia Fruit Punch drinks because we were told not to drink them because they had the red40 dye in it and it would make us ADD kids go nuts. We would get hyper as hell dude! You were my only friend that year man and I wish I could return the favor for what you did for me because you have no idea how much it meant.

I also remember the last time I ever saw you, days before it happened. I hadn't seen you in a couple years because you moved. I was walking out of Deptford Mall and saw you standing there we both got so excited and I finally got your number. I can't tell you how many times I've wished that I had jumped on the opportunity sooner to call you before it happened.

I know that wherever you are, you're in a better place. I love and miss you always man.

“ Brandon, It's been a while since we saw eachother. But I always cry when i think of you. I always think you forgot about me, Shayna, Shanel, mommom, & even our dad. You guys were never really that close. But, if you did forget me, im you're youngest sister. I miss you so much and i wish i could've been closer to you and could have been in your life more. When i look back, i think, does he even know who i am anymore. You most likely didnt and i understand. But i love you, and i miss you more than anyone. Rest in peace big brother.

“ At such a tragic time like this, words are such trivial notions--but in the same breadth, they are there to show the families and relatives that we are there for them, if they need us. There is no getting over a loss like the loss of Brandon. I only know this family through Linda, and through her, I know how much of a void there must be with Brandon gone. Life can be so great and at the same time be so unfair--and this time it is wholly unfair. To rob such a great woman of such a great child is a travesty beyond words. Linda and family, I know there isn't much I can do except send my condolences, but if there is anything you ever need that I can help you with, please do not hesitate to ask, because I will be there for you as soon as I can. "I must be strong And carry on 'Cause I know I don't belong Here in Heaven."

“ Brandon,
Although we didn't see you often, you have touched us in a special way. Your memory will live in the hearts of all you came in contact with. It's amazing how much you have grown since we last saw you at the Money family reunion in NC. We will miss you and we love you but know that you are in a better place.
To all family members and friends: The Lord has a purpose for all of our lives and when that is complete, he brings us home to live in his house forever. Brandon is home now. I pray that we all can accept the Lord's will and He gives us the strength to go on without forgetting the joy and life that Brandon has brought to so many lives.

“ Dear Brandon's Family, I don't know Brandon or any of you, but I sure wish that I had the opportunity. After watching the tribute video, I realized how much of a great loving family all of you are and how wonderful a person Brandon must have been. I work the Meat Stop on Clements Bridge Road and was working the night Brandon was hit. I immediately started praying and asked the customers who came through my line to do the same. I am so sorry for your loss, but please take comfort in that Brandon was able to help people even after his own death. God bless all of you during this trying time. Erin Murphy

I was coming home from work when I saw the immediate aftermath of the accident. I have been praying for your son every day. I did not know all of the details but I have followed the paper praying that whoever was hit, lived.
When I saw the paper this morning I cried that Brandon didn't make it. And that you had the strength to share his life with others who will benefit from his organs.
