In Loving Memory of our Princess
Brielle Lyanna Scott

Brielle was born April 8th, but just as fast the Lord called her home. She was so loved just by the thought of her no one could truly imagine. No physical touch was needed to show the abundance of joy she gave our hearts. Brielle was amazing in ways we couldn't understand, not to be seen but to be oh so present whenever she came in a room. She was Daddy's little girl and he was her armor who would do anything, be anything for her if she asked. She has taken a piece of us with her and we will forever have her in our memories, beautiful, sweet, and so serene.

To her she was loved immensely by her mother and father, Jeanette and Dante Scott, her 4 eldest brothers (her protectors) Dante Scott jr, Julius Scott, Noah Bowen Snead, and Jaylen Scott. Brielle will also be missed by her grandmother's June Turpin and Tonya Marriott, and her grandfather's Michael Bowen, Warren Turpin, and Rodney Williford, amongst all her aunts, uncles, and cousins. Brielle will be missed deeply to there's no comparison of love we all had for her.

I wasn't meant to stay
So please don't blame yourself

Since I have gone a way
For my time on earth was over
There something you need to know
My soul had reached its growth here
It was my time to go
Don't cry for all the could have
The what ifs and if only
Let go of all the guilt you feel
Then you wont feel so lonely
I graduated life here
For into heavens like
I live with in God's peace here
My soul is perfectly bright
Life there is just a chapter
Of a book that Carrie's on
I'm just on the next page now
I really am not gone
The angels up in heaven
Help me watch you as you live
Your life isn't over yet
You have so much to give
Your life there will touch others
Just as my life there touched you
So be sure to touch them softly
And place love within their view
Just know this will make sense some day
You will look back and smile
You are just merely passing through
We only stay there for a while
So please hold on to my love
As you walk through life each day

And know that I am right here
And right here Ill always stay

An Angel wrote in the Book of Life
My Baby's date of birth,
Then whispered as she closed the book
"To Beautiful for Earth."
