“ daddy i know you would have never chosen to leave us, this is so unfair, i hear you in my head telling me to “accept the things i can not change” but this one is extremely hard to accept. our family will always have a huge whole. you are the best dad ever, you always put us before anything. you taught me so much but i've always said one of the greatest lessons i've ever learned from you is family first, job second because you could always get another job but you can't ever get back moments and memories. i wish we had more time for more of those. agh our birthday week will never be the same. i'm going to miss you more than i can explain, i already do. i know you will watch over us but i want you to just stay at mom's side. i love you daddy xoxo lots of love

“ Daddy

I have no words. I cannot begin to tell you what you mean to me. All I want to do is hug you. I do not know how to live without you here. You are my heart and soul. I am the woman I am because you of. You raised me to be a strong woman. I will miss you forever and my heart will be broken forever. You were the best father a daughter could ask for no matter what I needed you were there no matter what. You the best pop in the world. I will always be your baby and your little girl. Rest easy
