“ Gene and I worked together and he made us all laugh with the small details that got his attention and listening to the reason why that small detail that everyone else missed got his attention and then it made complete sense as to why it got his attention. Gene and I lost contact a while after he moved on to other things. So last night after sharing funny memories about Gene at work I went home still laughing at the funny memories and decided to look him up in an effort to reconnect and went from laughing to the feeling of sadness and despair when I found this as I believed that Gene was somewhere living his life with Vincent and wished I would of tried to reach out sooner and spoken to him and shared some of those funny stories with Gene himself.

God bless you Gene your were a real one! To the family, I am so sorry for your loss.
