“ Soupy was one of the most unforgettable characters on the Island. He was the ultimate prankster and so much fun to work around. He was assigned to fix fire doors for a time and would strip parts from one door to fix another, like a continuing Ponzi scheme. He would drive some of the upper management nuts when he would be walking around the plant at Christmas time in his Santa suit. And when you would be on a job removing a bolt and the head would easily break off, you could tell from the hint of epoxy that Soupy had been up to his antics. Would continue to call the shop after retirement every Groundhog Day as his own special goof. Could go on and on. Just a very kind hearted and lovable guy. ”
