“ Once here, and now is our guardian angel sitting on the palm of God. If you were still here on this very day at this very time, you'd be here with us all having a nice cup of hot coffee, mingling with us working folks, keeping us in good company with your humor and the sound of your comforting voice...just one last time! I never got to say my last goodbye. I guess none of us on this very earth with a swiftly-passing existence will ever truly know what the word "goodbye" really means when you say it last (at the end of each day or during each departing moment...that which we should all fear the most, but never do.) It's terrifying to know when you will see someone for the very last time, never knowing that you will never see that person again. Then when you realize it, it hits you harder than a slap in the face and you pray over and over wishing you could have one last moment with that person to tell them for the very last time that we love you, and that we cared about you like as if you were our own grandpa! Every time we make a fresh pot of coffee, we think of you and I force myself to not cry all over again. No matter how hot the coffee is this holiday season, it cannot replace the warmth your very presence gave us at me&u pizzeria!!! It's not the same without you anymore. I just ask God that you watch over all of us and your wonderful, beautiful family and beloved friends and that you keep us locked safe inside your heart forever and ever! I love you very much and miss you very much and thank you with all my heart for all the good, and selfless things you've done for me and my family...and I offer out my condolences out to Joe Corso's family and all his friends and relatives! My sympathy and prayers go out to your family and may you give them strength, courage, hope and peace during their grieving and their sorrow!
Keeping you in my prayers and thoughts:

“ I am so sorry for your loss. In the bible we find hope and comfort. Isaiah 25:8 "God will swallow up death forever and will wipe tears from all faces."

“ Upon waking this morning my mind went right to all of you. Your family has been nothing but good to me, accepted me as if I was one of you and loved me unconditionally...including Pop. My heart is heavy with the loss of a great person, husband, father, grand pop and friend. I wish I could hug away all the sadness or say just the right thing to ease a little of your heartache. Please know I am here for all of you and love you all. I know Pops memory will live on forever in the extraordinary family he and GiGi created. I truly believe the bond you all share is unbreakable..even by death. Xoxo.

“ This wonderful husband, father and grandfather, Joe Corso, will be missed by his family and friends. I never got to really know him, but I do know his daughter Michelle. Michelle did not get to be such a kind, loving, caring, compassionate and understanding person she is without strong and loving parents. A true daddy's little girl! Prayers of Love and Light to raise Joe's soul on high.

“ My condolences to Joe's family. Although I only knew him from working at the supply house where he was a customer, he was always willing to talk, and never really in a bad mood. I'll never forget him asking for his coffee when he walked in the door, looking in every pocket for his lists, or offering us lunch at Me & U Pizza. Joe was more than a customer, he was the store "grandfather" who was always welcome. I feel lucky to have known Joe for the past 10 years, and will miss seeing that familiar US Navy hat on a weekly basis.
