“ I’ve been best friends with Lori for 41 years and counting, and fortunate enough to be considered one of the family. Truly the ‘Hotel California’ of families (“You can checkout any time you like, but you can never leave!”) Nor would you want to as they possess the perfect blend of love and laughter. People who not only love one another, but actually like each other too.

My life is full of wonderful memories of Joe, the patriarch of the family, the jokester, who still managed to crack jokes with the nursing staff during his last days in the hospital. Joe was loved by his kids, his grandchildren and many pets through his life; they say dogs and kids are great judges of character. I agree. They know a kind soul when they see one. His sense of humor was passed to his kids and everyone who knew him...loved him.

I will miss him calling me ‘kid’... and while growing up, calling me ‘Charmaine’ I will miss how he confused my daughter with my brother’s no matter how many times I explained, no you didn’t cross Jocelyn, at Pine Acres School, that was Lorraine and most of all... hearing his snide laughter after cracking a joke. Joe’s jovial spirit will remain in my heart forever.

“ Ever since I was a little girl growing up with Lori, his funny and crazy sense of humor never failed to make me laugh. And he was the same way a month ago when I saw him.

My memories of him are unique and funny and would probably be stupid to anyone else, so I will leave them between me, him and Lori!! He will always be in my heart and I will never forget him. I hope they are ready for him in heaven, because he is going to stir up the place!! I hope they have casinos there!

To Lori and her family, my heart is with you, take care and know he's at peace.

And Lori, you are my oldest and dearest friend and I love you and am thinking of you and will always be here for you.

Love, Abby

“ I have many fond memories of Lori's Dad (as I called him)one being walking up to SJ's and always could count on him for a Shirley Temple or a buck here and there. I am sadden to hear of his passing and am thankful he enjoyed a long life with a wonderful family. It has been many, many years but through my dear friend we were both mentioned at times keeping those memories alive. My prayers to you Lori and all your family.
