“ I have not known my Grandfather's sister for as long as others nor was I as close to her as my Mother Joyce, however I do have fond memories of Aunt Mary. During holiday get togethers, I always looked forward to seeing her. I confess as a young child I didn't realize what a wonderful person she was. Back then I was more focused on the dollar or two she would slip me at Christmas time. As I matured, I began to admire Aunt Mary's quiet inner peace which was always warm and inviting to myself and others. Another thing which I admired was the fact that she may have been physically small in stature, however she would pull no punches when discussing her take on current events. It was a treat as I got older to hear her opions of current events filtered through her many years of living life. Aunt Mary was never out to impress anyone. She didn't go out of her way to wear the latest fashion, rather she would mend the same dresses for years. Two months ago was the last time I got to share a few moments with her. It was at my Wedding. My bride and I were thrilled that she came and even danced at the recieption. We are saddened by her passing. My aspiration is to share with the youngsters of today, what my Aunt Mary has shared with me in years past. Inner peace, honesty, and sharing views from life's experiences.
