Michael Vendick

Pop, i miss you sooooo much. I feel like a huge chunk of my life is missing. You were my mentor, my teacher, and my greatest inspiration. You taught me what it took to be a man. You always put others before yourself, you were the most selfless, most caring person I knew, but you also always stood your ground and fought for what was right. You were full of honor, righteousness, compassion, and love. All the traits you taught me a man should possess. I hope to one day be at least half the man you were. You were my father, my friends, and my hero and will miss you deeply

“ I offer my deepest condolences to the family. It is with heavy heart that I just learned of his passing. I knew something was not right when I did not get a Christmas card this past year. I look forward to it every year. Many prayers to all the family, he was a great man. My father always told me that as well.

“ Pop, I miss you so much. It feels like a huge chunk of my life has gone missing. You were my greatest teacher and my greatest inspiration. You taught me what meant to be a man. You were the most selfless human being I ever knew. You always put others before yourself, but you always stood your ground and fought for what was right and always held true to what you believed in. You were full of honor, righteousness, compassion, and love. I can only hope to at least measure up to half the man you were. You were my friend, my father, and you will always be hero. I will forever miss you deeply. I love you so much pop.

“ Dad,
Thank-you for adopting me and supporting me through my wild days. Sorry for the headache. You never judged, only supported and I can't think of a better teacher.
One of my best memories is when you received deployment orders to Iceland and I was about to start my senior year of high school. You turned down the orders so I could finish my last years school club/activities. Instead of relocating the entire family to Iceland you were deployed to South Korea for a year (for the 3rd time). Summer past and school started and I was nominated as Homecoming Queen, but had no father to escort me like the others. Out of nowhere Dad showed up from South Korea to escort me down the football field. I wasn't nominated Queen, but I was blessed more by having Dad's unselfish act to walk me down a silly football field before he headed back to South Korea.
You always put everyone else first. Thanks for being my Dad. I miss you!

“ Dad, June 10, 2018

The surgeons were astonished that you survived the surgeries and septic condition.

I walked 5 miles to see if you'll be off the ventilator or be given a trach.

It took me 2 hours to walk to the hospital, but once there, it was a joy to see you breathing on your own!

You have overcome the odds!

Dad you had the will to survive the worse.

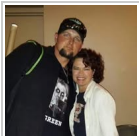

Rehab will not be fun or short, but necessary and I know you can do it!

I've always looked up to you for strength and your wisdom – I'm glad you're home!

Please don't give up, we LOVE you soo much!!

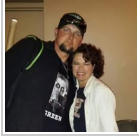

*Happy Fathers' Day - I Love You,
TINA*

“ Thank you for always being my rock, my strength, my go to. You were always there for me with no questions asked and you have the biggest heart I think is humanly possible. When I think of you I think of coming home from school and running through your house, down the deck, and into the pool. I think of you holding me on your shoulders in the pool and playing your little radio. I think of lemonade and ham and salami sandwiches. I think of an amazing fun childhood with an amazing grandfather and grandmother. I am grateful and blessed to say that I have had the chance to have the best grandpop in the world. I will cherish every single memory I have of you and you will love on in my heart forever and forever ❤️

“ Oh how I'm going to miss you Pop. You were our family's rock. Life will never be the same. I love you so much and you are missed so much already. I'm so happy my children got to spend time with you. Thank you for everything you have ever done to help me solely or my kids and family. We couldn't have built our life without you. As much as we are hurting, we find comfort in knowing you are no longer in pain. I have the best guardian angel now ❤️
