

Robert Richard Schumann, III

August 16, 1989 - December 24, 2023

Robert Richard Schumann, III (Bobby) on December 24, 2023 of Deptford. Age 34. Beloved son of Robert Richard Schumann, Jr. and Janet Bufano (nee Grasso). Stepson to Alfred Bufano III, Loving father of Reya Schumann. Cherished brother of Joseph Schumann.

Bobby's greatest love in life was for his daughter Reya. She was the light of his life, and he adored spending time with her, teaching her, playing video games with her and watching her grow.

He showed her patience and unconditional love always. They share a special bond that will never be broken.

Bobby had many passions, He had a curiosity and love for history, his knowledge was beyond what most can comprehend, from ancient times to current affairs. He loved to read and spent much of his time learning and had an uncanny ability to retain facts and information. He was an avid Philadelphia sports fan, and again could tell you facts of athletes and games from past to the current, not only for his home town players but for all teams. He loved watching sports, and would even watch golf if there was nothing else on.

He was very passionate about his career. Bobby started his beginnings at Grasso Foods in Swedesboro as part of his mother's family business. He learned much about tools and fixing machinery, which he had a natural ability.

He loved how things worked and had a lasting career as a machine mechanic in large companies. Bobby loved music, video games and spending time with family.

He is predeceased by his paternal grandparents Dorothy and Robert Schumann Sr, Aunt Debra Schumann, and maternal grandparents Lena and Joseph Grasso. He is survived by many Aunts, Uncles and Cousins who adore him.

“ I've loved Bobby since before his birth. He came into this world fighting and sadly that's how he left it. Bobby had no choice but to be a fighter. And, he was stronger than he believed himself to be. Bobby was a funny child who loved doors and flags and the color orange. He was extremely smart kid too. He would say things that were so deep I had to question his age. Bobby was always a kind soul who I believed to be an empath. He felt everything from a young age. When I looked into his eyes, I always saw his caring soul. I have shared a lifetime of memories with him. He was easy to talk with. You know, being one of his crazy aunts you would think the conversations we had would be trivial. But not us. We talked about anything and everything. Watching him grow into a good man brought me happiness. And I honestly can't thank Janet enough for allowing him in my life, all of his. My heart is shattered with his passing and I will miss him forever. I'll end with a quote from Tolkien for Janet
Courage is found in unlikely places. All that is gold does not glitter, not all those who wander are lost; the old that is strong does not wither, deep roots are not reached by the frost.
I love you.

“ People say that paths cross for a reason Meeting Bobby in the emergency room then again in our hallway beds we shared conversation Although our meeting was brief I could see how passionate he was about life Such a well mannered young man it was clear to see the love he has for the dedication of his mother Even in his discomfort his smile brightened up that dreary hospital I'm grateful for having the pleasure to meet and chat with him I am better for having made his acquaintance

“ So Much Love.

I knew from the moment I met Janet and Bobby, 40 years ago, that we were to be life-long friends, no matter the miles between us. We lived, we laughed, we loved. Our first born children were born less than a year apart.

Today, we grieve and pray together as a family and for a wonderful mother who suffers a loss none of us should ever know.

Bobby was so fortunate to have two fathers in his life, both of whom who fought so hard to see him through. Bobby and Alfie- no one could ask for more love and support. My heart breaks for both of you.

Please accept my and Cory's deepest and heartfelt condolences. Janet, Alfie, Bobby, Joey, beautiful Reya, the Schumann, Grasso and Bufano families, and all who knew and loved Bobby- may you all find comfort and strength in memories shared.
