“ As a baby, he was the best baby ever. He slept all night long from the first night home. He never fussed and was always happy. As a toddler, he was always smiling and full of life. When he was three years old, he was reading books and had a vocabulary that would put first graders to shame. When he went to school, I could always depend on him to have the best marks. At St. Joan of Arc's, the Nuns asked him to read the Bible at Sunday services. Tom had an eloquent speaking voice which rebounded through the church.

When he was out of school, he applied to the U.S. Navy and was offered linguistics school in California as he was proficient in three languages already. He decided, at the advice of his Father, not to go. Instead, he started a family of which he was very proud. He gave me all my wonderful grandchildren, of which I am very proud.

Tom loved the Lord and we spoke many hours on His Kingdom and studied the Bible. I prayed for him every day, together with my church family that he would find peace. Now he is with the Lord and his trials are no more. Rest in peace, my beautiful Son.

Love,
Your Mother
